

Prevention Lessons & Connections

Prevention Lessons	Intervention Practices
Prevention work is broad and expansive.	Intervention needs to be at every level of life that survivors may encounter.
Prevention must be integrated into all that we do.	Intervention supports are woven into many aspects of society.
Community partnerships are crucial to reaching our prevention goals.	Intervention requires community connections across all sectors.
Prevention can and must be trauma-informed.	Trauma-informed care is central to survivor wellbeing.
Effective changes to policy and practice must include voices at all levels.	Elevating survivor voices is central to successful support.
Prevention work is both challenging and fundamentally just.	Survivor support is central to a more just world.

What kind of outcomes does your program prioritize?

---

---

---

---

Where do you see opportunities to increase your prevention ability?

---

---

---

---

How can you add preventative elements to your intervention activities?

---

---

---

---

Who can you partner with?

---

---

---

---

How will you begin today?

---

---